

"I" Statements Worksheet

"I" statements are a form of assertive communication that express your thoughts, feelings, and needs in a clear and respectful manner. They focus on personal experiences and avoid blaming or accusing others.

Why Use "I" Statements?

- "I" statements help you express emotions in a direct and non-confrontational manner.
- Using "I" statements enhances mutual understanding and promotes active listening.
- They minimize defensiveness and prevent others from feeling attacked.
- "I" statements contribute to open, respectful communication, fostering positive relationships.

Examples of Blaming vs. "I" Statements

Blaming Statement	"You never listen to me when I talk about my feelings."
"I" Statement	"I feel frustrated when I don't feel heard when talking about my feelings."
Blaming Statement	"You always leave the dishes in the sink for me to clean up."
"I" Statement	"I feel overwhelmed when I see dishes in the sink after a long day."

Practice Section: Scenario vs. "I" Statements

Scenario 1:

Scenario: Your colleague frequently arrives late to team meetings, causing delays and frustration among team members.

"I" Statement Practice:

"I" Statements Worksheet

Practice Section: Scenario vs. "I" Statements

Scenario 2:

Scenario: Your partner forgets to pick up groceries after you specifically asked them to do so.

"I" Statement Practice:

Scenario 3:

Scenario: Your roommate consistently leaves dirty dishes in the sink.

"I" Statement Practice:

Scenario 4:

Scenario: Your friend frequently borrows your belongings without asking and often returns them damaged or late.

"I" Statement Practice:

Scenario 5:

Scenario: Your sibling consistently leaves the bathroom in a messy state after use.

"I" Statement Practice:
